

Eighteen Brooks Pierce Attorneys Named As North Carolina Super Lawyers

Seven of the firm's attorneys recognized in three "Top" categories
January 29, 2008

Brooks, Pierce, McLendon, Humphrey & Leonard, LLP, one of the state's best known business and litigation law firms, is pleased to announce that 18 of its attorneys have been named North Carolina Super Lawyers for 2008 in a survey conducted by Law & Politics magazine. This designation identifies those lawyers who are judged to be superior in their individual practice area(s) by other of the state's attorneys.

Partner Jim Williams (Business Litigation) was recognized in the state's Top 10 Super Lawyers, and Jill Wilson (Schools & Education) was recognized as one of the state's Top 50 Women Super Lawyers.

In addition, six partners were recognized as the state's Top 100 Super Lawyers, including George House, Dan McGinn, Jim Phillips, Reid Phillips, Mack Sperling, and Jim Williams.

Below are the Brooks Pierce attorneys who are recognized along with their respective practice area. Jeffrey E. Oleynik Antitrust Litigation Randall A. Underwood Banking Edward C. Winslow, III Banking John H. Small Bankruptcy & Creditor/Debtor Rights Marc D. Bishop Business/Corporate Howard L. Williams Business/Corporate Jim W. Phillips, Jr. Business Litigation Reid L. Phillips Business Litigation S.L. "Bo" Rodenbough, IV Business Litigation Mack Sperling Business Litigation James T. Williams, Jr. Business Litigation William P.H. Cary Employment & Labor M. Daniel McGinn Employment & Labor George W. House Environmental Wade H. Hargrove, Jr. First Amendment/Media Mark J. Prak First Amendment/Media Jill R. Wilson Schools & Education William G. McNairy Tax