"We are very pleased that Ann Hogue Stuart is joining Brooks Pierce in Wilmington," said Ed Winslow, the firm's managing partner. She regularly negotiates leases on behalf of landlords and tenants and works with financial institutions to confirm appropriate lease terms. Stuart has also structured the financing of numerous real estate ventures, including construction loans, conduit loans, defeasance and permanent loans and modifications, forbearance, workouts, and foreclosures of those loans. Her clients' projects include residential subdivisions, shopping centers, condominium developments, office buildings, apartment complexes, mixed-use development, and cogeneration facilities. Additionally, Stuart regularly works with small businesses and closely held businesses in acquisition and sale transactions, and assists clients with estate planning.

"Brooks Pierce is known as a leader in the industry, and I am thrilled to join the firm and work alongside so many of the state's top attorneys," said Stuart. "The legal landscape is dynamic and is always presenting new, complex challenges. I look forward to helping my clients navigate these challenges and meet their goals."

Prior to joining Brooks Pierce, Stuart practiced in Raleigh and Durham with Moore & Van Allen, and then moved to Troutman Sanders LLP. In 2013, Stuart relocated to Wilmington, where she established her own practice. Stuart earned her bachelor's degree and law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.
