Brooks Pierce lawyers Bob King and Dan Smith represent Hydrosience, Inc., a subsidiary of TIMCO Aviation Services. In 2010, a dispute arose as to whether Hydrosience, Inc. was a shareholder in a Texas company, Hydrosience Technologies, Inc. ("HTI").

The parties ended up in litigation in state court in Dallas, Texas. After two years, the trial court ruled that our client was the rightful owner of the shares and dismissed the various claims asserted by HTI. The trial court also assessed attorneys' fees against HTI.

On May 7, 2013, the Texas Court of Appeals affirmed on all issues, addressing several issues of first impression under Texas law.
