The contributors to Brooks Pierce's Digital Media & Data Privacy Law comprise our firm's digital media & data privacy practice group.

We have successfully represented broadcast and print clients in First Amendment and other media litigation in state and federal courts across the country. Our practice includes defending against libel, defamation, and privacy claims, prosecuting open meetings and public records actions, pursuing courtroom and court docket access cases and claims, resisting subpoenas directed to reporters and media organizations, and litigating Internet-based disputes. We also regularly conduct prepublication review of print articles and broadcast scripts and packages, and we have special experience and expertise in the area of political advertising.
