

Ed Winslow Presents CLE on Corporate Minutes

02.17.2011

Ed shared his perspective from years serving as General Counsel to clients and community organizations. He discussed the fundamental issues of preparing minutes of meetings, including whether they should be a summary or detailed as well as the consequences of minutes as evidence and drafters as witnesses in litigation.

Ed Winslow represents business and corporate clients with an emphasis in the fields of banking and financial services. Principal clients include bankers associations, banks, savings banks, insurers, and other financial services firms within and outside North Carolina.
