

Brooks Pierce Attorney Presents at Wake Forest University School of Law 1L Orientation

08.18.2021

Brooks Pierce attorney Sarah Saint spoke at Wake Forest University School of Law's first-year class orientation on her experience with the North Carolina Bar Association (NCBA) and how it has helped her grow her legal network and career.

Saint advises and litigates on behalf of public and private educational institutions and school boards on a wide range of education law issues, including special education and disability issues, civil rights laws and tort claims. She also represents businesses in a variety of industries to resolve disputes, litigating in state and federal court when necessary. Saint has a particular focus on diversity and civil rights issues, including issues related to race, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability and religion.

She is actively involved in the NCBA, including serving as Administrative Division Director for the Young Lawyers Division and Young Lawyer Division Liaison for the Education Law Section Council. Saint previously served as co-chair of the Diversity and Inclusion Committee for the Young Lawyers Division.
