

Brooks Pierce Attorney Jessi Thaller-Moran Named to Board of Directors of The Diabetes Family Connection

03.18.2019

Brooks Pierce attorney Jessi Thaller-Moran was recently named to The Diabetes Family Connection board of directors. Thaller-Moran serves on the board with five other members of the community.

The Diabetes Family Connection (DFC) is a North Carolina-based nonprofit organization that works to positively transform life with diabetes through the power of community. DFC provides space for kids, teens and families to come together to learn from each other and healthcare providers through recreation-based programs focused on building confidence, optimism and support for families affected by diabetes.

Thaller-Moran focuses her practice on employment law, with experience in both issues of employee management and dispute resolution, as well as complex business matters and litigation. She also serves as a board member for Arts Access in Raleigh, North Carolina.
