

New Associate Joins Brooks Pierce

10.26.2020

Leading North Carolina law firm Brooks Pierce is pleased to announce that Will Robertson has joined the firm as an associate. He will focus his practice on commercial litigation and work primarily out of the Raleigh office.

“We are excited to expand our litigation practice with the addition of another bright, new associate,” said Reid Phillips, the firm’s managing partner. “Will has demonstrated a great passion for the law, and I am confident he will do great work on behalf of our clients.”

Robertson recently finished a clerkship with Judge Louise W. Flanagan with the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina. He has worked as a law clerk extern with the Albemarle County Attorney’s Office in Virginia, served as a summer associate at Brooks Pierce and interned with U.S. Magistrate Judge David C. Keesler in Charlotte. He has a bachelor’s degree in public policy and political science from the University of North Carolina and a law degree from the University of Virginia School of Law.
