

Ben Norman and Dan Colston Involved with Business Courts Chapter in American Bar Association's Annual Review of Developments in Business and Corporate Litigation

09.30.2021

Brooks Pierce partner Ben Norman served as a co-editor and co-contributing author for the North Carolina section of the Business Courts chapter of the recently published 2020 edition of the American Bar Association (ABA) Business & Corporate Litigation Committee's Annual Review of Developments in Business and Corporate Litigation.

The Business Courts chapter covers annual developments and summaries of important opinions from business courts in the United States. Norman has served as the contributing author for the North Carolina section of the Business Courts chapter since the 2017 edition of the annual publication and served as a co-editor for the first time on the 2020 edition. Dan Colston joined Norman as co-contributing author for the North Carolina section for the 2020 edition. All chapters of the 2020 edition are available at this link: Recent Developments in Business and Corporate Litigation | Business Law Today from ABA.

Norman is a litigator who represents clients in state and federal trial and appellate courts, including the North Carolina Business Court. While the parties and industries have varied over the last sixteen years, nearly all of his cases involve working to find the best resolution for clients when faced with a failed business relationship.

Colston uses his experience as a law clerk in the U.S. Court of Appeals in his representation of businesses and individuals in litigation in state and federal courts. He counsels companies of all sizes on resolving disputes regarding a wide variety of complex commercial matters, and has experience with both trial and appellate procedure.
